

GLOBES Scholar Series

Talks Intersecting Environment & Society

Vincent Resh, Ph.D.

Professor of Aquatic Ecology
University of California,
Berkeley

SEMINAR: The Control of River Blindness: an African Success Story

Vince Resh is an aquatic scientist who has studied rivers and wetlands around the globe, with the goal of improving human health and environmental quality. A renowned researcher and teacher, he has received the Award of Excellence from the Society for Freshwater Science and the Distinguished Teaching Award from the University of California. Forty graduate students have completed their Ph.D. degree and over 400 research articles have been produced in his laboratory.

Friday, April 13th

12:00 noon

Carey Auditorium

(107 Hesburgh Library)

Co-sponsors: Department of Civil & Environmental Engineering & Earth Sciences, Environmental Change Initiative, Eck Institute for Global Health, Department of Biological Sciences