Ethics Café

Monday, February 4, 2013
3:00-4:00 PM
Geddes Coffeehouse

How are unmanned weapons changing the ethics of waging war?

Explore the way in which the rapidly changing technologies of unmanned and robotic weapons are changing and will change our moral and ethical obligations in war.

With
Maj. Gen. Robert Latiff (USAF, Ret.)
and Charles Pence

Ethics Café events offer faculty and students a space to learn about ethical issues pertaining to responsible conduct of research, professional conduct, engagement with the public, and other worldly matters. Drinks and desserts are provided.